

The last thing we need are cell phones in planes. Imagine being surrounded by cell phones ringing and people conversing loudly because their ears are plugged and have no concept of how loud they are speaking. This is a terrible idea and aids terrorists as much as it does law enforcement.